A report by Al Jazeera English has come under fire for claiming that Denmark is "failing" Palestinians. The report claimed that the country had a "mixed" record on "deploying support" for those in Gaza but was generally doing so "without providing comprehensive or sustainable aid." However, comments from Marianne Jelvedt, a left-wing MP for the Danish People's Party (DF), have dominated the discussion. In an interview with the Danish newspaper Politiken, Jelvedt claims that the report failed "Palestinians, Arabs and Muslims," adding that Europe is failing to make the right "statement" regarding the Palestinian people. "Is Europe failing the Palestinians, Arabs and Muslims? I think Europe has completely failed," she says. "We cannot be a global power without coming to grips with this issue," she adds. "It is very frustrating that we are not at the table as an international power." Politiken wrote that the report "was based on spending figures compiled by the Swiss-based financial information company i-sis that lists all government contracts and payments." "The figures are not broken
